三、 請將下列三段短文翻譯成中文（30 分、每題 10 分）

1. Two years ago, a Danish environmentalist called Bjorn Lomborg had an idea. We all want to make the world a better place but, given finite resources, we should look for the most cost-effective ways of doing so. He persuaded a bunch of economists, including three Nobel laureates, to draw up a list of priorities. They found that efforts to fight malnutrition and disease would save many lives at modest expense, whereas fighting global warming would cost a colossal amount and yield distant and uncertain rewards.
2. East Timor, formally known as the Democratic Republic of Timor-Leste, became independent in 2002. It declared independence in 1975 after four centuries as a Portuguese colony, but Indonesian troops invaded just days later and ruled it for the next 24 years. East Timor broke away from Indonesia amid a wave of violent protests that followed the 1999 referendum on independence. A U.N. transitional administration ruled the territory for nearly three years before full independence in May 2002.

3. The question of identity does not come up at all in traditional Muslim societies, as it did not in traditional Christian societies. In a traditional Muslim society, an individual's identity is given by that person's parents and social environment; everything, from one's tribe and kin to the local man to the political structure of the state, anchors one's identity in a particular branch of Islamic faith. It is not a matter of personal choice. Like Judaism, Islam is a highly legalistic religion, meaning that religious belief consists of conformity to a set of externally determined social rules.
