Section C: Reading Comprehension 40% (this section is worth a total of 40 points with each correct answer earning 4 points)

Directions: In this section you will read two passages and answer five questions out of each passage. Questions 21-30 are based on the two passages. Choose the best answer from the five suggested ones.

Passage One:

The following passage was taken from a recent New York Times article reporting on a highly unusual outbreak of measles in California in March, leaving 12 children ill. Read the quoted passage and answer the following five questions (21-25) accordingly. The article said that:

nine of them [the children] had not been inoculated against the virus because their parents objected, and that the other three were too young to receive vaccines. The parents who objected to their children being inoculated are among a small but growing number of vaccine skeptics in California and other states who take advantage of exemptions to laws requiring vaccinations for school-age children. The exemptions have been growing since the early 1990s at a rate that many epidemiologists, public health officials and physicians find disturbing. Children who are not vaccinated are unnecessarily susceptible to serious illnesses, they say, but also present a danger to children who have had their shots -- the measles vaccine, for instance, is only 95 percent effective -- and to those children too young to receive certain vaccines. Measles, almost wholly eradicated in the United States through vaccines, can cause pneumonia and brain swelling, which in rare cases can lead to death. .... Those who object to the inoculations because of their personal beliefs, often related to an unproven notion that vaccines are linked to autism and other disorders. (Steinhauer, Jennifer. "Rising Public Health Risk." New York Times 21 March 2008)

21. What is the health officials' view on the outbreak of measles?
- (A) alarmed
  - (B) indifferent
  - (C) pessimistic
  - (D) skeptic
  - (E) optimistic
22. Some parents refused to have their children inoculated against measles because they suspected the vaccines might cause
- (A) autism

- (B) heart failure
  - (C) pneumonia
  - (D) brain swelling
  - (E) memory loss
23. The number of parents who choose not to have their young children receive the measles vaccine is
- (A) declining
  - (B) dwindling
  - (C) growing
  - (D) shrinking
  - (E) unchanging
24. According to health officials, children who have not received the measles vaccine are
- (A) immune from the disease
  - (B) immune from autism
  - (C) susceptible to measles infection
  - (D) vulnerable to memory loss
  - (E) not better or worse compared with those who received the shots
25. Which of the following statements is true according to the above passage?
- (A) The measles vaccine is only 95 percent effective.
  - (B) Less than 12 young children in Iowa fell ill due to a recent measles outbreak there.
  - (C) Young children who have not received the vaccine will not be infected by those who are measles-infected.
  - (D) The United States has completely eradicated measles.
  - (E) Health officials strongly recommended parents that they do not inoculate their school-age children to protect them from developing autism.

Passage Two:

Alan Seeger, a Harvard graduate and an American poet, was best known for his World War I poem, "I Have a Rendezvous with Death." He wrote this poem while serving with the French Foreign Legion fighting for the cause of the Allies. He was killed in action at Belloy-en-Santerre, France, in 1916. The poem was published after his death in 1917. Read the entire poem and answer the following five questions (26-30) accordingly.

I Have a Rendezvous with Death (Alan Seeger 1888-1916)

1 I have a rendezvous with Death
2 At some disputed barricade,
3 When Spring comes back with rustling shade
4 And apple-blossoms fill the air --
5 I have a rendezvous with Death
6 When Spring brings back blue days and fair.

7 It may be he shall take my hand
8 And lead me into his dark land
9 And close my eyes and quench my breath --
10 It may be I shall pass him still.
11 I have a rendezvous with Death
12 On some scarred slope of battered hill,
13 When Spring comes round again this year
14 And the first meadow-flowers appear.

15 God knows 'twere better to be deep
16 Pillowed in silk and scented down,
17 Where Love throbs out in blissful sleep,
18 Pulse nigh to pulse, and breath to breath,
19 Where hushed awakenings are dear ...
20 But I've a rendezvous with Death
21 At midnight in some flaming town,
22 When Spring trips north again this year,
23 And I to my pledged word am true,
24 I shall not fail that rendezvous.
