Section C: Reading Comprehension 40% (this section is worth a total of 40 points with each correct answer earning 4 points.)

Directions: In this section you will read two passages and answer five questions out of each passage. Questions 21-30 are based on the two passages. Choose the best answer from the five suggested ones.

Passage One: (This passage is taken from a New York Times article written by Carol W. Berman and published on September 11, 2007.)

My patient suffered from a variation of Capgras syndrome, in which people are replaced by inexact duplicates. It has been considered rare, but the more I work with geriatric patients, the more I am diagnosing it. The disorder was first described in 1923 by the French psychiatrists Joseph Capgras and Jean Reboul-Lachaux. They treated a 53-year-old who believed that her husband, her children, her neighbors and even she had been replaced by exact "doubles" in a plot to steal her property.

In Capgras, there is an uncoupling of perception and recognition that leads many investigators to theorize that there may be a neurological, organic cause that remains unknown. Psychoanalysts have seen Capgras as an unusual form of displacement in which the patient rejects the loved one whenever negative features have to be attributed. Yet guilt and ambivalence prevent the patient from becoming conscious of the rejection. The bad feelings are displaced to a double, who is an impostor and may safely be rejected. Anna Freud thought this delusion allowed patients to defend themselves against loss and distress about changes in close relationships.

After resuming her medicine, my patient quickly lost her belief that her husband, parents and psychiatrist were doubles. When she was healthy enough to return to outpatient treatment, I asked whether she had ever seen the movie "Invasion of the Body Snatchers." She said no. I thought I'd better not explain the plot to her.

21. Which group of people is most likely to suffer from Capgras syndrome?

- (A) aliens
- (B) infants
- (C) seniors
- (D) toddlers
- (E) youths

22. When a patient is diagnosed with Capgras he/she usually displays certain attitudes toward his/her family members. They do not include:

- (A) enmity
- (B) generosity
- (C) hostility
- (D) paranoia
- (E) suspicions

23. Which of the following statements does not correspond to the findings on Capgras?
- (A) Researchers suspect the cause of Capgras is neurological.
 - (B) Psychoanalysts see Capgras as a form of displacement in which the patient repudiates a loved one.
 - (C) The Capgras patient suffers from guilt and ambivalence.
 - (D) The Capgras patient perceives a family member as an imposter or double.
 - (E) The author of the article suggested that the movie, "Invasion of the Body Snatchers" may have caused Capgras syndrome to spread among its viewers.
24. From the article, we can infer that the author is likely to be:
- (A) a Capgras family member.
 - (B) a Capgras patient.
 - (C) a film critic.
 - (D) a moviegoer.
 - (E) a psychiatrist.
25. Which of the following statements on Capgras syndrome is correct?
- (A) It was first diagnosed by Anna Freud.
 - (B) The reported Capgras cases are on the decline.
 - (C) The Capgras patient sees himself or herself as an imposter.
 - (D) An increased number of older people are being diagnosed with the syndrome.
 - (E) Researchers have found a cure for Capgras sufferers.

Passage Two: (The following poem is an excerpt from Harlem Renaissance poet Langston Hughes's poem "Advertisement For The Waldorf-Astoria.")

Fine living . . . a la carte?
Come to the Waldorf-Astoria!

LISTEN HUNGRY ONES!
Look! See what Vanity Fair says about the new Waldorf-Astoria:

"All the luxuries of private home. . ."
Now, won't that be charming when the last flop-house has turned you down this winter?
Furthermore:

"It is far beyond anything hitherto attempted in the hotel world. . ." It cost twenty-eight million dollars. The famous Oscar Tschirky is in charge of banqueting. Aexandre Gastaud is chef. It will be a distinguished background for society.
So when you've no place else to go, homeless and hungry ones, choose the Waldorf as a background for your rags—(Or do you still consider the subway after midnight good enough?)

ROOMERS

Take a room at the new Waldorf, you down-and-outers--sleepers in charity's flop-houses where God pulls a long face, and you have to pray to get a bed.

They serve swell board at the Waldorf-Astoria. Look at the menu, will you:

GUMBO CREOLE
CRABMEAT IN CASSOLETTE
BOILED BRISKET OF BEEF
SMALL ONIONS IN CREAM
WATERCRESS SALAD
PEACH MELBA

新

Have luncheon there this afternoon, all you jobless.

Why not?

Dine with some of the men and women who got rich off of our labor, who clip coupons with clean white fingers because your hands dug coal, drilled stone, sewed garments, poured steel to let other people draw dividends and live easy.

(Or haven't you had enough yet of the soup-lines and the bitter bread of charity?)

Walk through Peacock Alley tonight before dinner, and get warm, anyway. You've got nothing else to do.

26. Whom is the speaker of the poem addressing?

- (A) the privileged
- (B) the rich
- (C) the unfortunate
- (D) the well-heeled
- (E) the well-off
